OUT OF QUARANTINE

Manly Art Gallery & Museum, in partnership with Q Station - Sydney Harbour National Park, Manly, presents an exhibition exploring the ideas of quarantine, migration and place. Four contemporary Australian artists have drawn inspiration from the Q Station site, history and archive to create new works; Julie Bartholomew (ceramics), Izabela Pluta (installation), Mandy Pryse-Jones (painting) and Ben Rak (printmaking). Curated by Katherine Roberts in collaboration with Rebecca Anderson and Julie Regalado.

Q Station is the contemporary adaptation of the former Sydney Quarantine Station in Manly, Sydney. In the 1830s, a quarantine station was established on North Head, which operated until 1984. Migrants suspected of carrying contagious disease were quarantined at the site to protect the local Sydney community from infection. Today the site's 65 buildings, archaeological sites and spectacular Sydney Harbour vantage points operate as a unique destination; a hotel and conference venue steeped in history. Our Visitor Centre, adjacent to Quarantine Wharf is open every day 10am to 4pm and houses a free exhibition about the site's history.

A 45 minute guided Quarantine Wander tour runs every day at 11am and visits the key buildings in the wharf and hospital areas. Cost $15pp. For more information go to www.quarantinestation.com.au or phone Q Station Tour Reservations on 02 9466 1551.
